

Trooper's Notes Are Rejected as State Exhibit at Trial

But Report of Conversation is Not Stricken From the Murder Trial Record

(By W. Lester Trauch)

DOYLESTOWN, Jan. 23.—A conversation, which defense attorney Arthur M. Eastburn scathingly described as gossip, being Werner Joseph Ziemons, 19, pleading guilty to the murder of his 60-year-old father, and a State Policeman who was guarding him, in the quiet of a Quakertown hospital room electrified the murder trial here yesterday.

Three Judges, President Judge Hiram H. Keller and Judge Edward G. Blester and Edwin H. Satterthwaite heard Trooper David Davdock, of the Quakertown State Police, testify that Ziemons, while his father was dying in his home Nov. 6, 1952, said: "Die, you son of a ----, die."

The husky State Policeman related how he casually began a conversation with Ziemons, recuperating from pneumonia, by asking "What ever happened?"

"It is something that has been going on for a long time," Ziemons told Trooper Davdock. "I heard my father using cuss words, yelling and when I asked dad who he was calling names he said 'Your God ---- wife.' My father had beaten me many times," Trooper Davdock testified Ziemons told him.

Davdock, who was relieved of guarding the defendant about 3 o'clock that afternoon, told how he made notes of the conversation in the basement of the hospital. The notes, written in pencil on two sheets of paper, were not admitted as one of the Commonwealth's exhibits, after a protest made by Defense Counsel Arthur M. Eastburn.

His motion that Davdock's testimony concerning the conversation in the hospital room be stricken from the record was denied by Judge Blester. "Wasn't that conversation on a gossip level?" Eastburn asked the State Policeman.

"Did you warn Ziemons that what ever he told you would be used against him in Court?" Eastburn asked belligerently.

"No," muttered the State policeman.

Because of the surprise impact of Trooper Davdock's own notes, which are in a way a confession, District Attorney Willard S. Curtin was asked to take the witness stand to testify concerning the conversation.

Directors, Officers Are Elected for First Federal

The annual meeting of shareholders of First Federal Savings and Loan Ass'n. of Bucks Co., was held in the association's office Wednesday.

Hugh B. Eastburn, James A. Callahan, Henry M. Black and Fred H. Herrmann were re-elected directors. Officers elected for the ensuing year are Harold J. Kendall, president; James A. Callahan, vice-president; Hugh B. Eastburn, secretary and solicitor; and Henry M. Black, treasurer.

President Kendall reported to shareholders that assets of the association had increased from 4½ million to 5½ million in the past year. In addition, the association has financed over 300 homes in the surrounding area in that period.

The association announces it anticipates maintaining current dividend rate of three percent on savings and investment accounts which are insured up to $10,000.

FROM FISH TO FLAPJACKS

Their Algonquin Indian neighbors living south of them first applied the word Eskimo to the inhabitants of the American Arctic. Eskimo means "raw fish eater." Yet a group of Eskimos on Baffin Island tried out flapjacks aboard a United States Coast Guard cutter last summer and expressed themselves as content.

Flapjack means griddle cake. Both terms are Americanisms for pancake, an item of diet known under various names and in various forms throughout Europe. Neanderthal man in the Stone Age is said to have cooked the first pancakes, which would thus be the oldest form of cooked grain. The crepe suzette of chic, expensive restaurants is a pancake burnt in brandy.

At least in its American form, the pancake is made of thin batter, composed of buckwheat or other grain, cooked on an iron, aluminum or soapstone pan. The finished product must be thin, burnished on both sides to a golden brown.

American pancakes are best liked when topped with butter and hot maple syrup. According to one food expert, observance of Shrove Tuesday, the day before Ash Wednesday, as "pancake day" has now become as much a general custom in the United States as in England and other European countries. The idea goes back to medieval times.

The Christmas season, with its rich puddings, pies and cookies, has its delights of gustation. But for many Shrove Tuesday, with its special pancakes, could not come too soon, were it not for the thought that this occasion is also called Mardi Gras, or Fat Tuesday, doubtless to remind those who are on a diet that the pancake, dripping with butter, will be eaten at their peril.

FIRST-HAND LOOK

Europe is slated for an early on-the-spot once-over by administration policy-makers. Secretary of State Dulles and Mutual Security Administrator Stassen will head across the Atlantic in a few days on a fact-finding tour. Presumably they will check on NATO and prospective U. S. financial aid requirements.

The new administration finds the framework of the anti-communist European alliance, never too sturdy at best, sagging perilously. France is talking treaty revision. Germany's Adenauer, who has difficulty in holding the line, now has agreed to take another look. The French want the British to tie in more closely with the defense community.

In the meantime the British are reported to be changing their strategic thinking with regards to NATO, desiring greater emphasis on sea and air power, less on land forces.

It is plain that the government's new policymakers would rather be on the scene in Europe while the dust is being raised than wait for it to settle, a la China.

"WASHINGTON REPORT"

by Fulton Lewis, Jr.
(Copyright, 1952,
King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

FULTON LEWIS, JR.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23. — In urging Representative Kenneth Keating, Republican, of New York, to proceed without delay in investigating the 1950 publication by Drew Pearson of a secret, coded message from military headquarters in Tokyo to the Pentagon in Washington, I desire to point out that the Espionage Act forbids the publication of such matters.

Keating will lead the House Judiciary Sub-Committee investigating the Department of Justice in the new Congress. The Justice Department, in 1951, instructed the Federal Bureau of Investigation to probe the security leak, following publication of excerpts of the coded message from Gen. MacArthur to the Pentagon. The FBI interrogated 350 individuals who had access to the secret cable, exclusive of those in the Far Eastern Command in Japan who handled the sending of the message.

Then Attorney General J. Howard McGrath informed a member of the U. S. Senate that none of the 350 persons at the Pentagon, White House and elsewhere confessed to slipping the secret data to Pearson. One or more is lying, or the investigation should have been continued by the Pentagon or G-2 in Tokyo.

McGrath told the Senator that he decided not to prosecute since there were too many people involved. This was not a legitimate excuse. All 350 should be brought before a Federal Grand Jury to confirm or deny any contact with Pearson or any of his agents.

One of Pearson's employees, Jack Anderson, according to Senate employees, was highly agitated the day Senator Watkins, Republican of Utah, asked the Army to investigate the source of Pearson's story. According to two Senate attaches, Anderson begged them to ask Watkins to expunge the demand from the Congressional Record.

Keating is aware that the espionage law forbids publication of classified material. Apparently McGrath was not. The Espionage Law also contains this passage:

"Transmission or revelation of the contents of a classified document, in any manner to an unauthorized person is prohibited by law."

McGrath missed the point entirely, however. Watkins and other Senators were not interested solely in who gave Pearson the coded message, but also in the fact that it was published by the columnist. Pearson, according to the New York Herald Tribune of January 13, 1953, stated that he had been told by the Pentagon that it was all right to print the secret message.

Secretary of the Army Frank Pace replied: "The Army did not give Mr.

Pearson permission to publish the secret military message referred to nor any other classified material."

The message from Gen. MacArthur to the Pentagon, printed in the Pearson column, referred to the strength of the Chinese Communist Army, according to intelligence information available to MacArthur. Its disclosure, according to Pace, was dangerous to security and, according to members of the Senate, might enable the Communists to crack the U. S. military code.

It is not known whether a member of the military or a civilian employee of the Pentagon gave Pearson or his aide the coded message. Senator Watkins, in his speech, did not differentiate. He said whoever was responsible should be punished. He stated:

"I also hope that this incident will tend to bring into disrepute the kind of 'inside story' reporting which is all too prevalent these days. That kind of reporting too often finds origin in privileged status of certain types of writers who in reality are not reporters, but propagandists."

Pearson was vitriolic in his demands that MacArthur be fired from his command in Tokyo.

Keating's mission is clear. An Attorney General has admitted a violation of the Espionage Law took place. He admits, also, that the investigation was not conclusive. It should be continued and exposed, as any American with a son in Korea will attest. This is not a Kansas City vote fraud case, but one that strikes at the basic effort of a nation trying to combat Communism and win a war.

Nobody, of course, has as yet heard from the Army in regard to the so-called investigation it conducted following the Pearson article. This is, perhaps a matter for the new Armed Services Committee of the Senate, although jurisdiction would probably be waived if Keating requests it. The question that has to be answered is: Who in the Pentagon or the Far Eastern Command violated the Espionage Law in turning over to Pearson or one of his hired hands a secret, coded, vitally important message concerning troop dispositions in the Orient?

man, Mrs. Lynch read her report on the county project. In this connection she introduced speakers representing the museum committee of Washington Crossing Park Commission.

Mrs. Charles H. Smith, chairman, said museum committee is ready to act with the project committee in connection with the loan exhibit planned for April.

Mrs. Anne Hawkes Hutton, Edgely, public relations, chairman of the commission, expressed gratification concerning the "heritage" project of the Federation, and appreciation for work accomplished by the many clubwomen who served as hostesses at the historical painting "Washington Crossing the Delaware" at Washington Crossing Park.

Another phase of the project included plans offered by Mrs. William B. Loughrey, Gardens' chairman for the planting of a garden around the Thompson-Neely house in keeping with the period. It was decided to plant an herb garden and such flowers as would have been nurtured by the women of the revolution.

Mrs. Maurice Post, in charge of the hostesses, thanked the clubs which served during the months of November and December and reported that over $5,000 persons had visited the painting in less than one year. Copies of revised by-laws were distributed to officers and club presidents.

Mrs. Lynch urged that in the coming primaries all clubs continue the good work done in the past in getting voters out.

Special recognition was made to the Fairless Hills Women's Club whose untiring work was responsible for getting out of approximately 92 per cent of the registered voters in Fairless Hills.

Reports were made by all chairmen. Of special importance was the report of the scholarship chairman, Mrs. Martin L. Miller, who presented the plans for further increasing the availability of scholarship loans and the possible inclusion of two outright gift scholarships for the purpose of purchasing books, etc., in furthering the education of the recipient. This will be discussed and voted upon at the next meeting.

Mrs. Harry S. Hoffman, Jr., public welfare chairman, gave a resume of Dr. Russell Teague's address before the League of Women Voters, Morrisville-Yardley Chapter, concerning a proposed Bucks county health department.

It was stated that speakers from the Bucks County Tuberculosis and Health Society, Doylestown, would be available to speak at individual club meetings.

Mrs. Eugene Chipman, education chairman, coordinated her talk with the project and introduced Miss Athena Mantz who gave an excellent picture of the work being done for mentally retarded children.

Guests also included several members of the newly-formed Levittown Women's Club who plan to join the Federation. Appreciation was expressed by the Federation president to Mrs. Arnold Blythe, and Mrs. Samuel L. Smith, who arranged for the dinner. The Lower Makefield Women's Club will be hostess to the Spring Federation meeting which will be held at the Morrisville Methodist Church April 24th.

mander of the Legion, spoke on the ambulance service initiated by the Legion.

Raymond Thompson, director of the Neshaminy Valley Youth Center, told of his work and projects underway with the school students, their schedule of events and activities.

Elva Leonhardt, a sophomore at Council Rock, entertained with "Rattle of Spring", (Sinding); "Song of the Brook", (Lack); "Prelude in C Sharp Minor", (Rachmaninoff); "To Spring", (Grieg); "Wedding Day", (Grieg). Norman Kratz, principal, presented Miss Leonhardt with a certificate of merit in recognition of progress and proficiency in the study of music, awarded by the Music Performance Trust Fund, carrying $10 with the award.

Mrs. Charles Scully presided at the business meeting.

The 9th and 11th grades were tied as attendance and each received $5.

Mrs. Charles Swartz, Jr., chairman of the ways and means committee, reported a profit of $500 on the sale of advertising on card tables.

There were recorded 113 members.

Mr. Kratz reported if plans for the proposed high school building are put to bid as scheduled and bids awarded, the building should be started early in March or April, and with 15 months allotted as the building time, school should start in September, 1954, in the new building.

Hostesses were Mrs. Anna Hays, Mrs. Norman Kratz and Miss Mary Yerkes, with refreshments served by Mrs. Norman Tomlinson, Mrs. Alfred Krusen and Mrs. George Keller.

Trooper's Notes Rejected

tion between the defendant and his State Police guard.

Under cross-examination, District Attorney Curtin admitted that he knew about the memorandum which Trooper Davidock had made. "Why wasn't the defendant, Ziemons, interrogated about that phase of his statement?" Arthur M. Eastburn asked D. A. Curtin. "I thought it was covered sufficiently in the other two statements," said the District Attorney.

Ziemons made two statements, one about 10:30 in the morning after the murder, and another between 4 and 5 o'clock, in the presence of District Attorney Curtin, but refused to sign either one upon advice of an attorney.

Taking the witness stand about 3:15 yesterday afternoon, the defendant, who is married and the father of an eight months old daughter, was calm, well-poised and spoke most carefully and detailed about his relationship between him and his murdered father.

"There was trouble between my father and me as long as I can remember," said the young defendant.

"My two older brothers, both left home at 16, and joined the merchant marine because they were sick of the way they were treated at home. I was afraid of my father for quite awhile. I was taken sick Nov. 3.

"I had a pain in my stomach, chest and dizziness and I was awakened that morning by shouting from my father. My wife, Evelyn, and the baby were in the bathroom. I heard my father say, 'You lousy, rotten son of a b---.' I got up, went to the archway between the kitchen and living room and saw my father sitting at the table.

"I asked him who did he mean when he said those words.

"You should know who. That damn lousy wife of yours is as bad as your mother."

"He picked up the bread knife and waved it at me. I went for my gun. I got the shells in the living room closet and the gun in my bedroom closet. I returned to the kitchen and asked him did he mean what he said about my wife and mother. He reached for the knife again and started cursing. That's when it happened," said Ziemons.

Ziemons testified he didn't mean to kill his father. "I didn't aim the gun. I held my left hand across my stomach because of the pain. I didn't really know my father was shot. I thought he stumbled when he fell on the floor. I saw blood on the floor near his elbow.

"My wife came out of the bathroom and my sister out of the living room and asked what happened. I said, 'The gun went off.' I told them to call the police and a doctor."

Asked by Assistant District Attorney Donald W. VanArtsdalen whether he did say, when his father was dying on the kitchen floor, "Die, you son of a ---, die," Ziemons said: "I don't remember making such a statement."

Ziemons with absolutely no emotion in his voice testified that his father several months ago, following an argument about some DP help in the diner stealing eggs, burned him in the face by pushing, or grinding a lighted cigar against his cheek. A tussle ensued and when a milk bottle which the father threw at him broke and cut him on the elbow it was necessary to go to the hospital to have a stitch put in the wound.

Ziemons admitted that he had three firearms, a revolver, which he said was no good and only ornamental, and two rifles, one high-powered which was used to kill deer and bear and the other for birds and small game.

"Why did you load the rifle?" Judge Biester asked Ziemons. "I don't know why I did," the witness answered.

Mrs. Philippine Ziemons, 55, wife of the murdered man, and mother of the defendant, testified her husband had a quick temper and was vicious.

Wearing a black dress and hat and never once indicating how she felt, Mrs. Ziemons, who owns the diner along Route 309 and was working when the tragedy took place in her attractive home, testified they were married in Germany Sept. 23, 1922. They came to America in 1929, lived in Camden, N. J., and later Phila. "We had four children, three boys and one girl. My husband didn't work for seven years because he claimed he had low blood pressure.

"He had a mean disposition and took most of it out on me. He would make the children when they were small run up and down the stairs until they couldn't breathe anymore. He loved his granddaughter so much that when the baby cried he would get angry at Evelyn, who is Werner's wife.

"He expected Werner to work like an expert carpenter when he was 11 years old and would take him along on jobs and if Werner didn't do what he wanted, or do the work right, he would throw a hatchet, screwdriver or anything at him."

Mrs. Ziemons, who said she bought a Packard car for her son, testified she didn't pay him so much a week but gave him spending money and furnished a home for them.

James Langhorne, Quakertown hospital attendant; Leonard Griesemer, real estate broker; John Z. Long, and Godfrey Lansbury, all of Quakertown, served as character witnesses. Lansbury, a U.S. Gauge plant inspector, Sellersville, was the only one who said he knew there was hard feeling between the son and father.

"Mrs. Ziemons told me how her husband treated their son because I knew them quite well," said Lansbury.

With the exception of a Daily Intelligence reporter and several other persons in Court Room No. 1, the murder trial had none of the excitement, tension and expectancy which pervades the atmosphere ordinarily.

Mrs. Evelyn Ziemons, attractive wife of the defendant, was not called to take the witness stand in her husband's behalf by Defense Counsel Eastburn and W. Holskin Ginsberg which made it possible to conclude the trial yesterday at 4:50 o'clock after beginning at 10 in the morning. The Commonwealth rested its case at 3:10 and Ziemons was cross-examined at 3:45 by Assistant District Attorney Van Artsdalen.

Because Ziemons pleaded guilty and there was no jury, the Commonwealth was able to produce its evidence with remarkable speed.

Dr. David M. Shoemaker, Quakertown physician, the first witness for the Commonwealth, testified Ziemons died of ruptured aorta in the abdomen and lacerated liver. The fourth and eighth ribs were fractured.

The victim was about 60 years old, weighed 170 pounds and about five feet and nine inches tall. He was well developed and in good health," Dr. Shoemaker testified.

Dr. Shoemaker testified that the defendant told him in the bedroom, immediately after he had shot his father, that "Ziemons, the father had called his daughter-in-law a dirty son of a b. and had accused her of dropping the baby while washing it. 'You have been asking for this a long time and here it is' the defendant told me he said to his father at the time of the shooting."

Mrs. Marie Reed Henry, 29, a sister of the defendant and daughter of the victim, testified she heard her father hollering, calling some one a "dirty, lazy son of a b." "My brother asked my father who was being called those names. Next I heard a shot and I saw my brother in the doorway with a gun in his hand."

Coroner Russell J. T. Ferris, Ottsville, testified he was at the autopsy.

Patrolman Russell Henry, 47, Quakertown Borough Policeman, testified he and Mrs. Reed were married Jan. 3. "Marie summoned me to their home Nov. 6 and I saw the rifle on the defendant's bedroom chest. It was unloaded and in a case."

Cpl. Kenneth E. Stumpf, Quakertown State Police, testified he was at the hospital when the defendant decided not to sign the statement.

Chief County Detective Fred H. Kohler, who aided in the investigation of the case, said he was at the autopsy when the slug which was found in the father's body was turned over to him.

Chief Of Police Newton B. Rapp, Quakertown, testified he found the empty cartridge case at the scene of the murder.

Judge Biester ruled that the Court will fix a day for argument, or summations by the District Attorney and the defense counsel and that sentence will be imposed later.

The defendant, who conversed with members of his family, after the long day's ordeal, was remanded into the custody of the sheriff and returned to the County Prison.

He was born Feb. 9, 1933, and married Sept. 30, 1951. He quit Quakertown High School while a member of the junior class.

"I couldn't get along with anyone in school and I wanted to get out and work as soon as I could," he testified. He has been employed for about four years by his mother as a short order cook and living in Quakertown since 1949.

"If I didn't look after my mother anyone could take her over," he said.

In these winter days if you are ascending a snow packed steep grade and lose forward momentum, to move forward again without skidding try: (1) Engage emergency brake. (2) place shift in low speed and race motor slightly to avoid stalling. (3) release clutch slowly. (4) when you can "feel" the motor pulling against the emergency brake, slowly release brake so that wheels begin slow forward motion.

George Washington Slept in Doylestown, Remaining Few Days at Knickerbacker Davis Residence, Built About 1725

By Mitchell C. Hodges
(Daily Intelligencer-Courier Feature Service)

"George Washington Slept Here!" How many times have you heard that expression or been told of houses, here and there, where this country's first five-star General stayed?

"George Washington Slept Here" was also the name of a comedy, based on the Bucks County craze for owning and rehabilitating old houses, which was written a few years ago by Moss Hart and George Kaufman, also Bucks County residents.

It played on Broadway and was later presented one season at the Bucks County Play House, with Charles Butterworth in the leading role.

Well, Doylestown possesses a house in which Washington spent two or three days. It is now the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Knickerbacker Davis and is located back from East State Street, just opposite the borough water works.

TO PRODUCE PLAY

Kaufman and Hart's popular play, "George Washington Slept Here," will be presented again in its proper Bucks County setting by the Levittown Players, in commemoration of the birthday of the famous visiting patriot.

The Levittown dramatic group will appear in the comedy Feb. 19 and 21, in Pennsylvania High School auditorium.

Mr. Davis says that a number of his visitors have exclaimed with interest and admiration when they realized the historical significance of his home and heard him tell tales of its background.

Purest Type of House

The history of the house was studied and written up by the late Dr. Henry C. Mercer, of Doylestown, 1922. In that article, he claimed that the house was the purest type of early American colonial-type farm house. It was built about 1725.

"We made a research on the titles with the aid of the Doylestown National Bank & Trust Company," says Mr. Davis, "and ran the titles to the land all the way back to the Penn Grants of land."

John and Sara Fell lived in the house from 1775 to 1792, and their property then included 162 acres. This house has been lived in unbrokenly since it was built.

Mr. Davis then displayed a photostated copy of a page from the Washington Headquarters account book which contained record of a payment of six pounds in Pennsylvania currency to John Fell for board and lodgings. The date of the account was June 22, 1778, and the handwriting was that of Major Caleb Gibbs, Commandant of Washington's bodyguard.

En Route from Valley Forge

At this time, the Continental Army had moved from its agonizing stay at Valley Forge and was encamped in Doylestown. In a letter dated June 20, Washington wrote General Gates that he was encamped with the main body of his Army in a spot "ten miles from Corryville Ferry," which is now New Hope.

Among those who attended conferences with Washington while he was here were Alexander Hamilton, James Monroe, then a Lieutenant, and later the fifth President, the Marquis de Lafayette, Baron von Steuben, the first Inspector General of the Army, and probably "Mad" Anthony Wayne, Sullivan and Greene.

During these sessions, they discussed whether the British, then evacuating Philadelphia under Sir Henry Clinton, after General Howe had left, would proceed north or south. It was decided that they would travel north, which they did.

General Lee Sent to New Jersey

General Charles Lee was despatched to New Jersey to gain intelligence about British movements. For some strange reason, at the famous Battle of Monmouth, now the site of Flemington, General Lee ordered a precipitate retreat of his forces.

Washington arrived on the scene in short order, arrested Lee on the spot and quickly reversed the steps of his Army, and thus achieved at least a partial victory there.

Mr. Davis said that while searching through what used to be called a "toddy niche" in the huge kitchen fireplace, he came across fragments of a broken bowl and what seemed to be a blackened coin.

George Washington Button
"When we cleaned the coin, we discovered it was a button, bearing the five stars and a needle, the insignia of this country's first five-star General, General Washington. In those days, the emblem was placed on the reverse side of the button."

"A few weeks ago, while digging in a garden near our springhouse, we came upon what at first seemed to be the top of an old bottle. It turned out to be an Indian medal or brooch, made of soft silver."

"Around the circumference were sixteen arrowheads, pointing to the center. In the center, was the design of a belt of wampum, and inside the wampum, was a cluster of feathers on the head of an Indian."

Indian Chief Was Hostage
"We showed this to Mrs. Harry Shoemaker, who is quite an authority on Indian lore and relics. She said that from her research, General Washington had brought with him an Indian chief as a hostage, a man who had been an informer or spy."

"His name was Chief Asterex. While Washington was in Doylestown, two other Indians arrived to plead for the release of Asterex."

When he and Mrs. Davis uncovered this Indian relic, they also cut through some very old bones. They went back next day to collect the bones and found they had disappeared. They had been buried and protected in a coat of clay, about three feet underground. When exposed to the air, they quickly disintegrated.

"So we feel that perhaps that was the burial place of Chief Asterex. Mr. Charles Hargens, of Carversville, a noted illustrator from the West, and also something of an expert on Indian matters, studied the relic. He believed that the headdress indicated Asterex was an Algonquin Indian."

Moved Here in 1917
Mr. and Mrs. Davis moved to Doylestown and into their home in 1917. They discovered the house had its original hardware—old latches and hinges. For instance, it has thumb latches, which antedated the swivel latch.

When they reset the hearth in the fireplace, still with the original flagging, they discovered a cinder spoon, hand-forged and probably made by some local blacksmith.

The fireplace, still in good operation, is huge. Its front extends eight feet six inches, and a person can stand upright inside. The original oven door and crane butt are still there, and also a trammel, a metal device with notches, which enabled a householder to regulate the distance of a cooking utensil from the fire.

Over the fireplace hangs a Hessian musket, which Mr. Davis purchased near here.

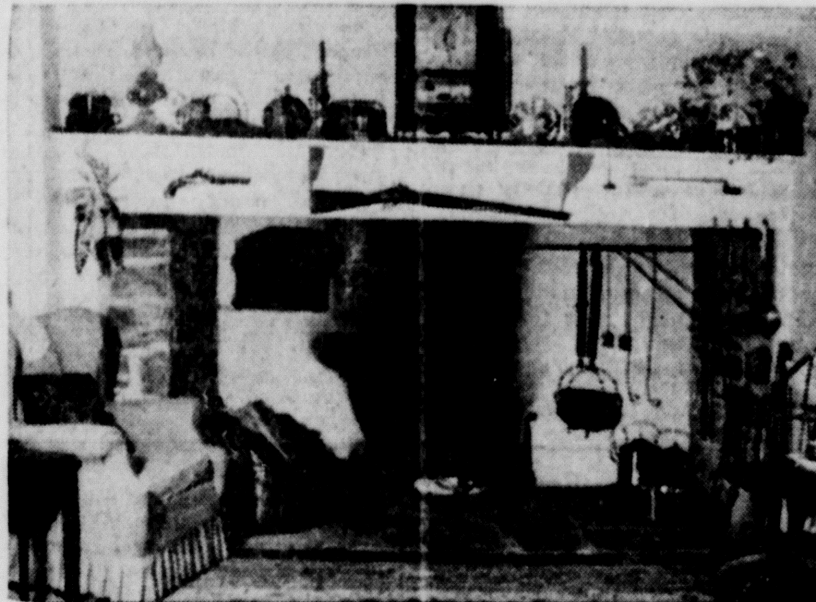

Used by Potsdam Guard
"It had evidently been owned and used by a member of the Potsdam Guard, who aided the British Knickerbacker Davis is holding a silver button, believed to have been lost from General Washington's uniform. On the paper are Indian relics found on the Davis grounds.

This is the Knickerbacker Davis house in Doylestown, one of the oldest homes in this historic section and, "Washington did sleep here", as verified by historic documents.

Main fireplace in the Davis house is huge, more than eight feet wide and high enough for a tall man to stand in.

in the Battle of Trenton. A later owner turned it into a fowling piece. Originally, it had been about six feet in length.

"I also have a very rare flintlock pistol, still in excellent condition. It was made by Walsh, a Revolutionary gunmaker who turned out custom-built pistols for officers in the Continental Army and lived in Philadelphia. I believe. The name of Walsh is stamped on the lockplate."

"I also have an old bayonet, which was plowed up on our property by a former tenant, who presented it to me."

The house has closet doors with wooden turnknobs. The second floor bedroom door has a wooden lock on it, with the keyhole upside down. It is made of oak and bound in iron.

The underpinning of the house is made of saplings smoothed on one side for a bearing surface. The house has an arched root cellar, and an apron at one-end to support the huge chimney.

Found Well Inside
"There used to be a well in the cellar, we discovered," says Mr. Davis, "but we have closed it off."

In the old days, people often sunk wells in their cellars.

"They did this because in winter, it was safer to get water from there than risk attack by marauding Indians or other unpleasant characters. Also, it was might handy in case a blizzard kept a family house-bound."

The house has most of the original glass in the frames with imperfections showing. The window sashes are hand-made. There are original beams in the ceiling which are seventeen feet long. The house has an "unusual" boxed-in, semi-spiral staircase, which curves upward from the cellar to the third floor.

In the first-floor ceiling, is a huge latch. This is opened to raise or lower furniture from the first to the second floor.

This house is made of local stone, set in a mosaic design indigenous to Bucks County. It was finished with original flat line pointing.

Forbearers Were Bucks County Quakers

Mr. Davis stated that all his father's family were Bucks County Quakers. "My great great Uncle was Andrew Elliott, who was born near Holicong. He was Surveyor General during Washington's administration. He also laid out the city of Washington after the French engineer, Lenfant, was fired."

"There is an avenue there named after Elliott. My great great Uncle also settled a serious boundary dispute with Spain at Natchez on the Mississippi River. When he died, he was a Professor of Mathematics at West Point."

Mr. Davis was born in Germantown and has spent much of his life there and in Philadelphia. He was with N. W. Ayer as a copywriter, worked on most of the Philadelphia papers and was in radio work.

He appeared on 1500 sponsored radio shows as a news commentator. During World War II, he was a Lieutenant Commander in the U. S. Coast Guard, Temporary Reserve, as Public Relations Liaison Officer for the 4th Naval District in Philadelphia.

As a very successful writer, articles by Mr. Davis have appeared in Colliers, Ladies Home Journal, House and Garden, American Magazine, American Home, Popular Mechanics and other magazines.

He is now writing an early American novel, part of which will be set in his home. Mrs. Davis is aiding him in this by doing the big job of research.

H. Hensel, of Philadelphia. From 1942 to 1945, Mr. and Mrs. Davis traveled 21,000 miles by car in 24 states. They were war correspondents, accredited by both the Army and Navy.

Wrote of Armed Services

Their job was to collect and write information on the Armed Services in this country. This took them to many camps and ships. They wrote and had published 100 features, the last of which appeared in Colliers in 1945. It was called, "The G. I. Dog Comes Home" and concerned the re-training of war dogs for civilian life.

Mrs. Davis also does early American tin work. She turns out useful and decorative pieces, many of which she has sold.

She is secretary of the Doylestown Nature Club and also of Countryside Hardeners, and is Press Representative for the V.I.A.

Saying Prayers And Graces

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

SUPPOSE you were the mother of a son 10 years old and wished to encourage in him the saying of graces and prayers. But suppose your husband was not much in sympathy with this and your mother, living with you was even less so. A mother with such a problem writes:

"Dear Dr. Myers: I would appreciate any suggestions about how to establish in the home the habit of saying table graces and evening prayers. We have not always been religious in our tendencies. I began regular church attendance only about four years ago, hoping that by so doing my son might benefit. My husband has been a church member for only one year and says that although he thinks that children are better for having church experiences, he can't believe all that 'hokey.' My mother, who lives with us, also has tendencies in this direction. In the face of their disbeliefs, I find it hard to teach our son table graces and evening prayers."

Discipline Problem

"At present I am teaching a class of junior girls in our church school. I enjoy them very much, but our board of education has been considering combining boys and girls again. I had to stop teaching the mixed group before because I was unable to discipline the boys properly. I hope you can help me, as I should not like to give up my class."

In reply, I said in part: I trust you never discuss differences in religious matters in the presence of your son, but succeed in avoiding arguments. As you know, you can never win any person to your Survey Made in Levittown; Fact Are Presented To PRR Traffic Dept.

A plea for express service between Levittown and Phila. was presented to Pennsylvania Railroad officials yesterday by Alex Kopstein, of the Levittown Civic Association. Oliver Marron, vice president of Levitt & Sons, Inc., also attended the conference.

J. W. Leonard, passenger traffic agent of the railroad, promised to take the request under consideration. He said authority was needed from the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission before the express trains service can be started.

The trip between Levittown and Phila. now takes 47 minutes, with the trains making 17 stops, Kopstein said, with one morning train making the trip in 42 minutes.

Forty-four per cent of the commuters in Levittown have said they would ride the Penna. R. R. to work in North Phila. or the center of the city if fast trains were available. Alexander S. Kopstein, 23 Linden lane, said Tuesday in announcing to the Levittown Civic Association the results of a survey he recently made.

These facts were presented to the traffic department of P. R. R. yesterday. "I have very fond hopes for what will happen," Kopstein told the Civic Association.

Kopstein said his crew of 60 volunteer canvassers, with a chairman for each of the eight sections of Levittown, interviewed 1,344 householders, of which 591 said they would ride the commuter trains. "A number of Phila. workers gave negative answers," he said, "since their places of business were too far from the railroad line or they were well satisfied with their present methods of transportation."

A chart has been prepared by E. A. Phillips, 5 Lakeside drive, an auditor who acted as chairman of the Lakeside Area as well as co-ordinator of statistics. This chart shows preferred times of arrival and departure in Phila. This information will be presented to the Pennsylvania Railroad Traffic Department.

Kopstein expressed his thanks to the members of his transportation committee and residents for their cooperation in the survey.

PARIS, — (INS) — Romanian refugee sources in Paris said food rations for each member of forced labor gangs in Romania contain only 716 calories a day. The minimum daily requirement is around 2,000 calories.

One Step in Putting 'Freeze' on Polio

Here's one of the steps in preparation of gamma globulin—the blood fraction which scientists supported by March of Dimes found gives a degree of temporary protection against paralytic polio. Approximately 55,000 children took part in field trials which established GG as the first substance to counteract polio. Workers here are placing trays of GG in the freezer where it is frozen solid before the next operation.

Expect 1st Delivery of Ore At U. S. Steel from Ship

FALLS TOWNSHIP, Jan. 23—The first delivery of ore direct from ship to Fairless works without the aid of barge, is expected some time today, according to announcement from U. S. Steel plant. It was announced by Alfred Lynch, secretary of the Maritime Exchange, the Greek ship Krios left Kailash Point anchorage late yesterday for the Fairless plant, where it will deliver some time today 3500 tons of ore which it brought here from Pastellillo, Cuba.

A new epoch in Delaware River shipping was ushered in Wednesday when 1,000 tons of pig iron, shipped by barges from U. S. Lines Pier 80, South, in Philadelphia, where it had been transferred from the Pioneer Glen from Australia, was unloaded at the Fairless Works.

It was the first waterborne shipment direct to Fairless, Lynch stated.

Previous shipments of iron and ore had been made from Girard Point and Pier 14, Port Richmond, after being transferred from ships that brought the metal to the Philadelphia port.

The Pioneer Glen brought the pig iron from Papeete. All told, she has 4,500 tons of pig in her hold. The remainder of the cargo will be transferred as rapidly as possible from ship to barges and delivered to the steel works. The operation, Lynch said, should be completed within the next few days. It is being carried out by the Independent Pier Co.

Require 22 Tables To Care for Card Devotees

A card party sponsored by the Fathers' Association was held in Bristol high school auditorium Wednesday evening. Twenty-two tables of card devotees assembled.

Pinochle high scorers were: Pearl Wilson, 818; Walter Kealey, 782; G. Nutt, 782; Elizabeth R. Slater, 781; Mrs. Edith Bosch, 778. Three tables of bridge were formed, high scorers being: Mary Dwyer, 4410; Joyce Schwartz, 4320; Mary McGee, 4230; Eleanor Fisher, 3660. The door prize, a basket of fruit, was given to Mrs. Edith Bosch. The committee in charge was the executive board of the Fathers' Association, headed by Walter Cooper.

RECIPES

GINGER CREAM PRALINES

1 pound light brown sugar
Few grains salt
¾ cup evaporated milk
2 to 3 tablespoons finely cut candied ginger

2 cups pecan halves (½ pound)
Mix ingredients together in heavy saucepan. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until sugar is dissolved. Continue cooking over medium heat to soft ball stage (236 degrees F.), stirring constantly. Cool slightly, then beat until mixture begins to thicken. Drop candy rapidly from a tablespoon into paper baking cups set into muffin pans, or onto a sheet of aluminum foil or onto a well-buttered baking sheet. If candy becomes too stiff at the last to drop into smooth patties, stir in a little hot water. Makes about 20 patties 2 inches in diameter.

Note: These pralines have a more delicate flavor when prepared with light brown sugar. If only dark brown sugar is available, substitute 1 cup white granulated sugar for 1 cup firmly packed brown sugar.

Bristol Jayvees Win Over Delhaas, 58-50

The Bristol Jayvees won their eighth game of the season yesterday as it beat the Delhaas High team, 58-50, on the Rohm and Haas court. The Bristol Junior Varsity quintet has lost two games this season. It was the second loss in 10 starts for Delhaas.

The game was nip and tuck most of the way. Bristol had a 15-7 lead in the first quarter but 19 points by Coach Stanley Dick's team in the second period knotted the count at half-time, 26-26.

Dick Crosby and Harold Loud led the Bristol attack with 15 and 14 points, respectively. Bob Morris and Jack Pearl had 12 and 10 for the losing team.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Twelve robot elevators directed by an electronic "traffic cop" are now serving the 9,000 occupants of the government's new General Accounting Office Building. The "brainy" elevators require no operators.

When filled, they rise automatically. When descending with capacity loads, they save time by by-passing additional calls.

BLOOMFIELD, N. J. — (INS) — Changing a flat tire on a dark highway at night is made safer and easier with a new (Westinghouse) highway safety-light kit. SALVATION ARMY DRIVE LEADERS

J. Paul Skidmore (center), general chairman of The Salvation Army 1953 fund drive, discusses campaign strategy with John S. Peake (left) and Wm. Wikoff Smith (right), two of his appointees to direct the drive. Peake will assist Skidmore as vice general chairman while Smith will be chairman of the special gifts committee.

$750,000 Plus Set as 'Army' Goal; First Volunteer Appointees Named

The goal of The Salvation Army fund drive which starts April 1 and runs through May will be $750,000 plus, J. Paul Skidmore, vice president of the Real Estate Trust Company and general chairman of the drive, announced Wednesday.

The plus, Skidmore explained, is for the maintenance of The Salvation Army's facilities and services for men and women of the armed forces. The $750,000 sum is required for The Salvation Army's regular job—care for the civilian needy.

The fund drive will be conducted in Philadelphia, Bucks and portions of Delaware, Chester and Montgomery counties. Solicitation in business and industry will be limited to those firms which did not take part in last fall's United Fund drive. All homes in the five-county area will be solicited.

At the same time, Skidmore announced the appointment of Wm. Wikoff Smith, Bryn Mawr, as chairman of the special gifts committee and John S. Peake, Chestnut Hill, as vice general chairman of the drive.

As chairman of the special gifts committee, Smith, who is president of the Kewanee Oil Company, Philadelphia, will be in charge of obtaining grants from trust funds and foundations for Salvation Army projects. He served as vice chairman of the suburban division last year and as vice chairman of the Main Line Division in 1951.

Peake, who heads his own insurance brokerage firm in Philadelphia, Peake & Company, Inc., was chairman of the community division last year and directed the house-to-house solicitation in the city's 52 wards. This year he will assist Skidmore in directing the entire drive.

For six to eight servings, combine one pound of ground beef and one-half pound of ground pork in large bowl. Saute one-third cup of chopped onion in one tablespoon of shortening for about five minutes, or until onions are soft. Add to the meat along with two eggs beaten lightly, one and one-half cups of dry bread crumbs, one tablespoon of sugar, two teaspoons of salt, one-fourth teaspoon of pepper, one-fourth teaspoon of nutmeg, and three-fourths cup of milk. Mix thoroughly and shape into balls about one and one-half inch in diameter. Brown on all sides in one-fourth cup of melted shortening in a heavy skillet. Remove from shortening. Blend five tablespoons of flour into the shortening and add three cups of water into which three beef bouillon cubes have been dissolved. Add one and one-half tablespoons of lemon juice and cook, stirring constantly, for five to ten minutes or until thickened. Add three bay leaves and the meat balls. Cover and simmer about one hour, or until tender, turning the meat balls occasionally. Serve hot with mashed potatoes, rice or noodles.

For a sweet finish, serve hot mince pie. Cook one nine-ounce package of mince-meat with one and one-half cups of water for three minutes; cool. Pour into pastry-lined, eight-inch, shallow pie pan. Top with crust and bake in hot oven, about 400 degrees F. for 30 minutes.

RECIPES

American Bouillabaisse

- 1 12-oz package frozen shrimp
- 3 tablespoons olive oil
- ½ cup chopped onion
- 1 carrot, sliced
- 2 stalks celery, chopped
- 1 teaspoon flour
- ½ teaspoon curry powder
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
- 1 No. 2½ can tomatoes
- 2 (1½ lbs.) lobster tails or 1 small can lobster
- 1½ lbs. fish fillets

1 pint clams with a little juice or 1 can clams
1 pint oysters with a little juice
Salt
Pepper
Shell and clean shrimp. Heat oil, add onion, carrot and celery and cook until soft. Add flour, curry powder and garlic, and mix all together. Add parsley, tomatoes and lobster tails or canned lobster. (If tails are used, bring mixture to a boil and cook 30 to 35 minutes. Remove tails, separate meat from shell, cut meat in pieces and return to kettle.) Cut fish fillets in small pieces and add with shrimp. Cook 10 minutes. Add clams and oysters and juice. Bring back to the boil and season to taste with salt and pepper.

now preparing for electrical work to be done.

"Keating is in the process of moving equipment and material to the hospital site preparatory to starting their work."

"The work that is being done at this stage of construction is, due to its importance, slow in progress. Most of the present work is of a hidden category — testing for settling of each footing, etc., consuming much time."

"In any activity participated in by a large group of people it is necessary, for the convenience and safety of all, that certain regulations be observed. This is especially true in the course of construction, because of the nature of weather, the safety factors involved, soil condition, etc., it is not feasible at this time for open public inspection of the field work in progress. However, conducted tours of the project are being planned under jurisdiction of the hospital public relations committee chairman in conjunction with the clerk of the works. portion of the 1952 figures with those of 1948, when the tolls were higher on both spans, "is the best evidence that lower tolls promote higher revenues and traffic counts."

The 1952 revenues of $2,811,144.10, he said, were an increase of $1,212,083.98 or 75.3 percent over the revenues produced in 1948.

Comparing the traffic counts for the two years, he added, the 1952 figures showed an increase of 5,343,397 vehicles or 106.5 percent over 1948.

"On the Tacony-Palmira bridge," he said, "the 1952 revenues totaled $2,267,023.85 as compared with $1,296,537.63 in 1948. This was a gain of $967,486.22 or 74.45 percent. The 1952 traffic count on the Palmira span was 8,307,118 vehicles, an increase of 3,988,997 vehicles or 92.38 percent over 1948."

"The increase on the Burlington-Bristol bridge, since the reduction of tolls, was phenomenal. Last year's revenues amounted to $444,120.25, a boost of $344,597.76 or 177.1 percent over the revenues four years ago. The Burlington span's traffic count in 1952 was a gain of 1,344,400 vehicles or 194.87 percent."

Norcross added:

"This proves, of course, that lower tolls result in traffic gains and higher revenues."

A breakdown of the 1952 report, as compared with the figures for 1948, follows:

Tacony-Palmira bridge: Revenues, $2,267,023.85, an increase of $967,486.22 or 74.45 percent; traffic, 8,307,118 vehicles, an increase of 1,344,400 or 194.87 percent.

Burlington-Bristol bridge: Revenues, $444,120.25, an increase of $344,597.76 or 177.1 percent; traffic, 1,344,400 vehicles, an increase of 627,569 or 44.09 percent.

transaction was for $6,589.63, beginning May 10, 1951.

An Edison husband is seeking a divorce from his Doylestown township wife, Josephine C. Snyder, and a $1650 car-truck damage suit against a Doylestown department store and one of its drivers, John Morris, 75 Mary st., has been discontinued, according to actions filed in the Court of Common Pleas here.

Fred E. Snyder, Edison, in a libel in divorce, has named his wife, Josephine C. Snyder, Snyder ave., Edison, the respondent. They were married Oct. 15, 1951, in Edison.

An action in trespass in which a Doylestown department store, Scheets-Clymer, and John Morris, 75 Mary st., are the defendants, has been discontinued, according to the docket in the Prothonotary's Office, Dexter-Carpenter Coal Co., Inc., 32 Broadway, New York, was the plaintiff and the $1650 damage claims grew out of a car-truck collision July 7, 1951, at Carversville and Danboro-Point Pleasant roads. The plaintiff's car was travelling north on Carversville road and was driven by Frank K. Ettari. The defendant, John Morris, was operating a truck west on the Danboro-Point Pleasant road.

William E. Walter, 18 West Lincoln Highway, Pennell, is being sued for a divorce by his wife, Mary M. Walter, Woodland ave., Pennell. They separated Jan. 1, 1945, and were married in Oak Lane July 21, 1939.

LIGHTEN HOUSEWORK; LABOR - SAVING TIPS FOR EVERYDAY USE

By Frances Vannoy
(Home Economics Extension Representative)
Resolve to lighten your daily load of household jobs for 1953. Here are some time and labor saving ideas that will help you.

Have a good mental attitude toward the job. Tasks you fear or dislike are much harder. Be interested in the job.

Dress appropriately for your work, for when you look neat you feel better. A comfortable house dress that permits free body movement and is easily cared for will make your work easier.

Make the environment conducive to good work. The right temperature helps keep up health and energy. Proper lighting lessens eye-strain and good room color makes work more enjoyable.

Have the proper equipment for yourself and the job. Keep equipment in good condition and store it in an easily accessible place near where it is used most.

Develop skill in the jobs you do often and analyze the jobs to save steps, motion and time.

Use your body properly. Have good posture for sitting, walking, climbing stairs, bending, and lifting. Use smooth movements instead of short jerky ones. Whenever possible sit to do your work.

Plan your work. A good plan allows a balanced activity program, giving you a chance to alternate hard physical work, mental work, and rest.

Learn to relax and play, and follow the rules for good health. Let every member of the family do his part. When you have a plan and a system, most tasks will take care of themselves.

Harold Scheik, Morrisville, given by his wife. The group presented the Rev. Mr. Scheik a gift. Refreshments were served.

Leather shoes take a beating in wet fall and winter weather. Leather chemists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture say that mud and water, as well as excessive dryness, can ruin leather but the proper oiling and greasing protects it. To save on shoe bills, they stress the need for keeping shoes clean, pliable and water-resistant. Frequent polishing with flexible wax polishes keeps leather soft and pliable and gives it a finish that helps turn off water and prevents an accumulation of dust and dirt.

"For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God. For ye have not received the spirit of bondage again to fear; but ye have received the Spirit of adoption, whereby we cry, Abba, Father. The Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit, that we are the children of God; and if children, then heirs; heirs of God, and joint-heirs with Christ; if so be that we suffer with him, that we may be also glorified together." —(Romans 8:14-17)

ANNUAL MEETING

FALLSINGTON, Jan. 23—The annual meeting of Memorial Church of All Saints (Episcopal) was held in the parish house Jan. 15th. Minutes were read by Johnston McAuley, clerk of the bishop's committee. Joseph Mullen, treasurer, made his annual report followed by a discussion of finances and recent repairs to the parish house and church. The report of Clifford McIlhenny, warden, was followed by reports of activities of organizations. The work of the Mary Williamson Guild was described by Mrs. Robert Rue, and Mrs. Charles Satterthwaite, treasurer and president of the guild, respectively. Mrs. William S. Taylor, Jr., and Mrs. Lena Updike, president and treasurer of the Altar Guild, respectively, reported on their work in the sanctuary. Mrs. Leslie Stradling, Church School superintendent, told of work and growth of the school. Mrs. William Taylor and Joseph Mullen obtained some promises from parishioners to attend the Christian living conference Jan. 27, 28, 29, in St. James' Church, Langhorne. The vicar delivered a brief "State of the Congregation" message. There being no nominations of additional members to the bishop's committee, it was announced that present members will choose officers for 1953 at the next committee meeting. These members are: Mr. McAuley, Mr. McIlhenny, Joseph Mullen, and Raymond Pope, Fallsington; Andrew Babesh, Woodbourne; Howard Barnett and Charles Jackson, Fairless Hills.

MEAT COOKERY QUIZ

Q. By what cooking methods may liver be prepared?
A. All types of liver may be braised. Calf and lamb liver may be broiled. Calf, beef or lamb liver may be panfried or deep-fat fried.
Q. What are the steps to follow in cooking by these methods?
A. In braising, as pictured, dredge sliced liver with flour. Brown on both sides in lard or drippings, cover and cook until tender, about 20 minutes. In broiling, have liver sliced 1/2 to 3/4 inch thick. Broil at a moderate temperature, just long enough to change color about three minutes on each side. For frying have liver sliced about 3/4-inch thick. Roll in seasoned flour and place in frying-pan in enough fat to cover surface of frying-pan. After liver is browned on both sides, reduce the temperature and continue cooking for a few minutes until the liver is done. In deep-fat frying have the liver cut in long, thin strips. Fry in deep-fat, heated to 360 degrees F., until nicely browned.

RECIPES

Planked Steak

Try this sophisticated ground beef serving. Shape ground beef (1 1/2 pounds for 4 servings) to resemble a porterhouse steak. Place it on your broiler rack and insert the pan so that the top of the meat is 2 to 3 inches from the heat. Broil until brown, about 6 to 8 minutes. Turn and place the meat on a greased plank or bread board. Place tomato halves and cooked carrots around the meat. Using a spoon or pastry tube, arrange mashed potatoes around the edge, entirely covering the plank. Return the meat to the broiler to heat the vegetables and to cook the meat on the second side.

"Mothers' March" Planned In Levittown, Jan. 27th

Women Will Solicit Funds, Door-to-Door, to Help Combat "Polio"

By Staff Reporter
LEVITTOWN, Jan. 23—A "Mothers' March" is being organized in Levittown.

Mothers here, as do mothers everywhere, know the effects of the dread disease of poliomyelitis, and they plan to aid in the March of Dimes by "marching" from door-to-door for donations on Tuesday next, January 27th.

Residents of Levittown are asked to turn their "front door lights" on that evening, not only to aid the solicitors in getting about, but also as a means of publicizing the drive on infantile paralysis. Starting at seven o'clock, a number of local women will start their trek, ringing door-bells and sounding knockers, then inviting residents to contribute to the cause.

Any women interested in soliciting are invited to contact Mrs. Irving Olin, 20 Summer Lane, or Mrs. Strauss at 23 Primrose Lane.

LEVITTOWN, Jan. 23—Warren D. Helmer and his wife, Kathy, of 72 Edgewood lane, have made themselves a red kitchen.

Mr. Helmer painted the kitchen door and cabinets a bright red, and his wife made some red and white window drapes. They put red slip covers on the kitchen chairs and place mats to match on the table.

The kitchen table itself was given a modern appearance when the Helmers removed the side trim, and set it on black pipe legs. Mr. and Mrs. Helmer, and daughter Melissa, 3 1/2 years, and Connie, 16 months old, came here Nov. 19 after a seven-months stay in Langhorne. Before that, Cincinnati, Ohio, was their home for three years. Mr. Helmer is a native of Spokane, Wash., and his wife, of Wellsville, N. Y.

Both are college graduates, he of Carnegie Tech and she of Duquesne University, two Pittsburgh institutions. Mr. Helmer works for Thokol Corp., Trenton, N. J., as chemical engineer in the development department. His wife studied journalism in college, and wrote for the Duquesne University campus newspaper, The Duke. While studying she wrote an advertising column for a weekly paper in Pittsburgh, and worked in the advertising department of the Sylvania Electric Co. Emporium.

Mr. Helmer enjoys home carpentry work, and he and his wife are both amateur photographers. They plan to set up a combination workshop-darkroom in the utility room.

LEVITTOWN, Jan. 23—Two old friends are now Edgewood lane neighbors.

Frank E. Steck, of 79 Edgewood lane, formerly worked at the U. S. Steel Homestead Works with Edward R. Troha, whose present home is two doors away, at 73. Today, both are employed at the Fairless Steel Works.

The two men stayed together in Morrisville for seven weeks until moving into their Levittown homes a few days ago. Mr. Steck and his wife, Alice, moved here Saturday. The Stecks expect to be a three-some in May.

Mr. and Mrs. Steck were born in Munhall, but lived until recently in Whitaker. He is a crane operator at the Fairless Works, a job he held at Homestead with department OH-5.

Steck and Troha both were in the Coast Guard during World War II, and were unexpectedly reunited one day at Guam, aboard the cargo transport ship U. S. S. Centurus. Mr. Steck sailed on the transport, U. S. S. Eridanus, the frigate New Bedford and the Walnut, a buoy tender, in the Pacific. In Homestead he was an active softball player.

Edward Troha's brother, John, is married to a sister of Mrs. Steck, John Troha, in the Air Force and stationed at Bolling Air Base, Washington, D. C. Last Fall was elected to the all-service football team as tackle on the Bolling grid squad.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—(INS)—Abracadabra, the seemingly meaningless jargon of the magicians, had its origin as "medicine" for the ancient Romans. So say researchers of the Arner Co., pharmaceutical manufacturers. The word was used as the writing for an amulet, or charm, worn around the neck to alleviate aches, pains and assorted illnesses.

Attardo Leads In Scoring With 117 Points to His Credit

Phil Attardo, a newcomer in the Bristol Basketball League, is leading the individual scorers of the circuit. Attardo, who is playing center for the Celtics, has scored 117 points on 39 field goals and the same number of fouls.

The former St. John's High (Brooklyn) player is 27 points ahead of Joe Pindar, of Kaiser Metal, who has dropped 80 points into the nets. In third place is Stan Lelinski, Franklin, who has registered 78 points.

Johnny Paone, of Lucisano Brothers, leading scorer of the league last season, is in seventh position. Hughie Bowe, Rohm and Haas, has scored 47 points in two games while Bill Curren, Franklin, has garnered 49 points in three times.

Kaiser Metal Scores 35 Points in Final Quarter of Game

Kaiser Metal scored 35 points in the final quarter to defeat the Rohm and Haas team and keep pace with the Celtics for first place in the Bristol Basketball League. Final score of the tilt played on the loser's floor was: Kaiser Metal, 83; Rohm and Haas, 62.

Rohm and Haas also suffered a bad third period. It led at half-time, 32-29, but only scored 11 points in the third session while Kaiser found the mark for 19 points.

It was Joe Pindar who found the range of the basket in the final quarter as he made eight fielders and two fouls for 18 points. His teammate, Howie Grant, scored 9 points in the last quarter while Bob Lattanzi converted six straight fouls. He also had two in the third period to give him eight straight conversions.

Pindar's last session shooting enabled him to end up with 28 points for the night, six more than Grant. For Rohm and Haas, Pat Carnvale was a consistent scorer with 25 points while Walt Zook bucketed 16.

Celtics Break Scoring Mark; Chalk Up 99 Points Over Penndel

The Celtics broke the scoring mark for this season last night as it chalked up 99 points in winning over the Penndel Aces in a Bristol Basketball League game on the Rohm and Haas court. Penndel made 85 points, making a total of 184 points scored in the 40 minutes of playing.

Penndel eked out an early lead and it wasn't until Phil Attardo shot in two straight field goals that the Celtics managed to tie the score at 12-12. The game remained close until the Celts pulled away to a 9-point lead at the half.

In the third session, the Aces came within two points of tying the score but again the Celtics went on a spree and scored enough points to notch the win.

Attardo, Charlie Brady, and Walt Holden led the winners in the scoring column. Brady gave a fine exhibition of set-shot shooting by sinking in seven shots in the same number of tries in the first half. He finished with 26 points. Attardo had 31 points, most of his goals were under the baskets. Holden made eight fielders and a foul for 17 points.

However, this trio was fed continually by Alan Burton and Don Singer. Burton also did a fine job of getting the rebounds.

For Penndel, Ed Carber connected for 11 field goals and three fouls or 25 points.

The win enabled the Celtics to remain in a deadlock with Kaiser Metal for first place in the circuit, it being their fifth win against one loss.

VIENNA — (INS) — Women deputies in the Austrian parliament, told the country's justice minister that he'd better change local laws which reportedly still consider wives the "property" of their husbands. The female legislators said this was a "gross violation of the equality of sexes guaranteed under the Austrian constitution."
